

For Constipation Diseases

The root of many malignant diseases

Laxcarin is used very effectively.

How LAXCARIN Is Used?

AS A STOMACHIC OR DINNER PILL.—The usual dose is one pill taken immediately before or after dinner. Sugar-coated and non-nauseating, they can be thus taken without inconvenience and by their power of gently stimulating the Stomach, Organs of Digestion, Liver and Bowels, will tend to give relief from the effects of over-eating, indigestion and any tendency to the formation of a costive habit of the body.

DOSES, as a LAXATIVE, in Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Chronic Constipation or Costiveness, Sick Headache, etc., take one, or two tablets at bedtime, or any number required to secure a healthy movement of the bowels once and not more than twice during the next day. When taken every night or every other night, in many cases a single pill will be sufficient; others again will require more, while in a few instances a half pill will be found ample. When thus taken, patients will soon learn by experience the size doses they need, bearing in mind that a single, healthy, natural movement of the bowels daily is all that is required. This is the best time and manner of taking them in these diseases, as operating very gently next day they carry off vitiated secretions.

As a PURGATIVE. The average dose for an adult, to produce moderate purging in Bilious Attacks, Disordered Stomach, is from 2 to 3 tablets.

As a CATHARTIC. Where very active purging is desired, from two to three tablets may be taken.

For CHILDREN. They should be given in doses proportionate to age, say a child from 5 to 8 years 1/2 tablet, from 9 to 15 years one whole tablet.

CONSTIPATION OR COSTIVENESS. This condition is really a parent of evil, giving rise, when habitual or chronic, to an almost innumerable class of ills and affecting a numerous host of people. To obtain relief, take Laxcarin at bedtime in laxative doses sufficient in size only to induce a single natural evacuation of the bowels next day. After a few days omit the tablets, but nevertheless on the following morning at the same hour on which the pills operated the day before, make an effort to have an evacuation, whether there is any desire for it or not. If successful, never fail to go to stool at that hour every day or the constipated habit may return. If any evacuation should not follow the first or second morning after omitting the tablets return to their use for a few days and then omit them again as before, and so continue until regular evacuations are established.

In most cases, whether with adults or children, the doses will have to be varied in size and in the time intervening between the doses to suit the peculiarities and habits of different individuals and of differing circumstances, each learning by experience for themselves what is best adapted to their use.

It is best to have a box of Laxcarin always on hand. It is the safest purgative, and no family medicine chest is complete without it.

Laxcarin is sold by the "Laxcarin Products Co., Dept. E-21, Pittsburgh, Pa. Price per box one dollar; full treatment, six boxes, five dollars. Will be sent postpaid upon receipt of cash, money orders or stamps. Substitutes must be refused.

PAINS AND ACHES YIELD QUICKLY TO SLOAN'S LINIMENT

Are you tormented by Neuralgia, Lumbago, Sciatica or any of those aches that require a counter-irritant? Then let the soothing, warming application of Sloan's Liniment stop the pain by drawing the blood away from the congested part.

It is the pressure on the nerves by the blood rushing to the inflamed muscle or joint that makes you ache. So when Sloan's Liniment relieves the swollen blood vessels by setting up a counter-irritant on the surface, the

MARCH WORK WITH POULTRY

The poultry department of the farm establishment must not be forgotten. When pruning or culling time comes, spraying the orchard is no more important than spraying the hen-house or dusting or greasing the hen and chicks. Early hatching is one of the prime essentials for success; but early hatching is only the beginning. If you want good, strong, vigorous, well-matured pullets to do the laying for you next fall, you must see that the chicks hatch out at the proper time, and then keep them growing, and prune and cull vigorously. The success of the future depends on the work of today.

Many people think that because they paid attention to details and "got things going" last year they don't need to bother much this season. This is a big mistake. The real results this year were caused by attention to details last year, and next year will depend on this year—which means that careful attention is necessary every year. Those baby chicks, too, must be looked after. Ask your county agent or home demonstration agent for a circular on "First Care of Baby Chicks."

When planning to raise standard-bred chicks, many people mistakenly think that different methods should be used. This is all wrong. To those who have made a success in raising mongrel or mixed poultry is necessary only to suggest that the same methods be employed with the standard-bred chicks that were used in raising the mixed or mongrel variety. To those who have not raised poultry, the best advice is, "give the chicks a good chance and they will do the rest." Do not hamper them with needless restrictions.

Baby chicks are easily trained and will naturally seek places that are warm, but they have no power to regulate the heat or ventilate the room or to supply fresh water. Keep charcoal, grit, etc., before them all the time or when needed. They naturally love to scratch, and if given a chance will make the litter fly in digging after tiny morsels. Keep them scratching. This can best be done by not over-feeding. Have an outside room that is a little colder than where the brooder is kept or put the brooder in one side of the building or room. Remember that sweating or damp brooders or house are more dangerous to chicks than cold, but chicks must have a sufficiently warm place to huddle whenever they wish.

To those poultry raisers who breed by the hen all there is to say is to let the hen do the brooding. Keep the hen free from lice and also keep her dry and keep the coop clean. It is no difficult task; all that is needed is thoughtfulness and careful attention. Baby chicks will get under the old hen whenever they feel the need of a little warmth. It is, therefore, very important that the hen should be kept dry. Do not allow the hen her liberty with her brood for at least four weeks. This will give the chicks plenty of opportunity to become strong. Unless the grass is short and conditions favorable, it is better not to turn her out as early as four weeks. The first two weeks, however, are the most important in the life of the chick and the most important factor is brooding during that period. The hen will do that properly if given the proper place and let alone. To those operating brooders the best advice that can be given is, "Watch, and follow instructions." Don't be too big-hearted and overfeed the baby chicks the first week, as it is a well known fact that more chicks die as a result of overfeeding the first week or two than from any other cause. Many poultry raisers do not realize this because many chicks, owing to their strong vitality, do not die during that short period of one, two or three weeks, but hang on for a longer period and then die. The death of these chicks is attributed erroneously to other causes when in reality it is due primarily to overfeeding during the first week.

Quinine That Does Not Affect Head. Because of its tonic and laxative effect, LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE (Tablets) can be taken by anyone without causing nervousness or ringing in the head. There is only one "Bromo Quinine." E. W. GROVE'S signature on the box, 30¢.
